Board meets during summer, lights on, faculty off turns

At the June 6 meeting of the Hartnell Governing Board, the following took place:

The board asked Hartnell College Superintendent-president Gibb Madsen to study four bids received by the board on real property in which the college has a part interest.

-- Dr. George Starret of University of California At Los Angeles, representing the California Teachers' Association, presented his interpretation of the data in the staff satisfaction survey because the survey results included only part of the faculty's answers in the free response section.

-- Bob Rieger, president of the academic senate at Hartnell, reported that the faculty members had voted to form a committee and meet with representatives from the administration to discuss the results of the staff satisfaction survey. The board members voted to meet with the faculty committee in a public meeting June 13, after the board had studied the survey.

-- The board accepted several grants from the Health, Education and Welfare Federal Programs Allocation, including $38,029 for the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants Program; $44,726 for the College Work Study Program; and $8,987 for the National Direct Student Loan Program. The board also accepted $3,706 for the 1978-79 Special College Work-Study Program of American Samoan and Trust Territory of the Pacific Island Residents.

On June 13 the governing board continued its June 6 meeting for the purpose of discussing the staff satisfaction survey conducted in May.

-- Academic Senate President Bob Rieger announced that, at the direction of the faculty, the Academic Senate had chosen a committee of seven senate members to meet with members of the administrative staff and governing board in a non-public meeting to discuss prob-lems at Hartnell. Some of these problems were indicated in the satisfaction survey results.

Rieger asked the board to set up the first meeting of the survey tee." committee.

"We are ready to sit down and talk and start this process," said Rieger.
"What the faculty and I ask of the board tonight is to set up the first meeting with this committee. . . and to work together to solve the concerns of 114 faculty members at Hartnell College."

Superintendent-President Dr. Gibb Madsen and nursing department chairperson Barbara Palmerton commented that the committee "Already you have defined the problem publicly," said Madsen. "Now you are asking to go private."

"We are not asking that the meetings be private necessarily,, said Academic Senate Vice-president Ron Bates. "We thought it would be difficult to get the entire board together to have meetings for this as well as regular agenda. That is the same reason we only chose a committee of faculty. We figured that if we could get two or three of you, maybe we could sit down and get started on this problem. If you want to keep it public with the entire board, I think the committee would be willing to do this."

Natural Sciences department chairman Larry Elder said that he felt that the committee had been chosen by a plurality of the faculty rather than a majority. Elder felt that all of the department's were not represented.

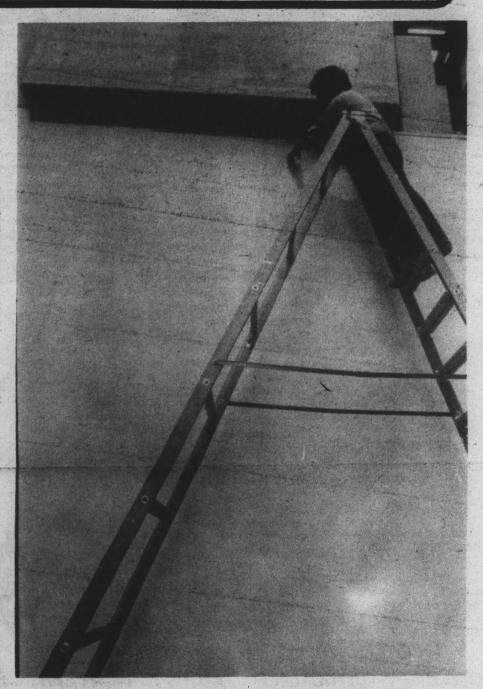

"I feel that there is a plurality among the faculty that is preventing honest discussion and honest dia logue," said Elder.

Faculty Association President Buzz Holt responded that the committee was selected by the senate, which was elected by the faculty, and was at the direction of the faculty as a whole. He said that the problems to be considered are those of the faculty as a whole and not departmental problems.

Holt said that the committee members were presented at a faculty meeting "of any faculty members who wanted to come, who cared enough to show up. You talk about pluralities, obviously in a legislative body, once a quorum has been reached, it is the people who care enough to show up and vote who make the decisions.

Sixty-five faculty members showed up at the faculty meeting held during the summer and voted unanimously to accept the commit-

"You're going to hear a lot of special pleading by individuals like Mr. Elder," said Holt. "They are talking only for themselves. If you want to know what your faculty thinks, look to Mr. Rieger's commit-

Sentinel protests lockout by Dr. Madsen

When do adults need chaperones?

According to Hartnell College Superintendent-President Gibb Madsen, adults need babysitting when they are on campus.

Dr. Madsen says the college has a rule that no student is permitted in any classroom or building on campus unless an employee of the college is present. This rule stems from an alleged porno movie-making incident which took place last fall, although it has never been proved that any Sentinel staffer or any other Hartnell student was even under suspicion of being involved.

Dr. Madsen insists that this rule is enforced 'for the protection of the students" and for insurance purposes.

We're not so sure.

Teachers and students who attended Hartnell College before and earlier in the reign of Madsen recall having permission to be in the buildings without faculty supervision.

Four years ago, this newspaper began a tradition of publishing a public service issue which would be available to students the first day of the fall semester. They were permitted to use the newsroom, production and darkroom equipment during the summer with and without faculty supervision.

In keeping with that tradition, the new editorial staff began making plans last spring for another fall public service issue. This required use of the journalism room over the summer vacation.

While staffers were in the room one day, Dr. Madsen entered the newsroom and informed them that since they had no chaperone, they would have to leave the building. "Isn't there someone from security or somewhere who could supervise us?" they asked

'I'm not paying somebody to babysit you," was Madsen's reply. But he indicated that an off-duty staffer would be an acceptable babysitter.

Anxious to resume work, Sentinel staffers consulted with the dean of instruction, Larry Elder, who referred them to the head of the English department, Dr. Earl Seymour. Dr. Seymour said that as long as he knew who was "babysitting," it was alright with him if certain faculty members chaperoned activities in the Sentinel newsroom.

Three Hartnell faculty members, Jerry Kjeldgaard, Al Schoepf and Dr. Morris Barenfus very generously agreed to give up their spare time and sit with the staff while publishing operations proceeded.

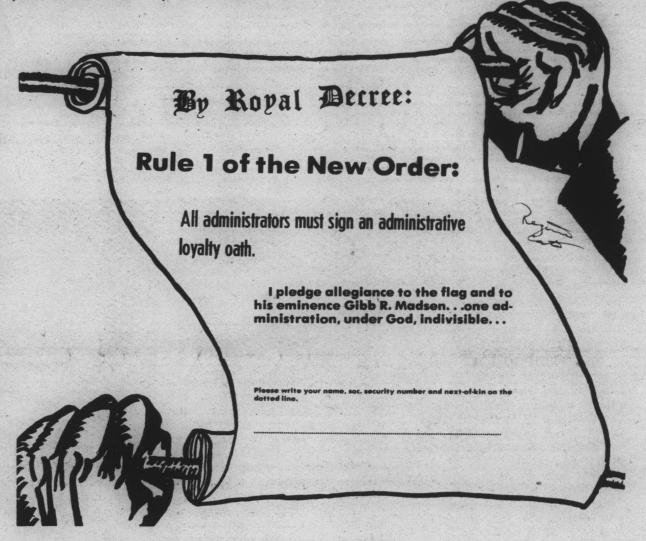

However, after only one day under this arrangement, Dr. Madsen went back on his original statement and issued an order that under no circumstances, babysitter or no babysitter, were Sentinel staffers to be allowed access to the newsroom. We would have to wait, he said, until the journalism adviser returned from his vacation. If that meant a delay in our publication date, Madsen said, that was just too bad.

We feel this was an outrageous attempt at suppression of this newspaper. If Dr. Madsen truly had been concerned only with student safety, he would have accepted the faculty members who agreed to supervise that staff.

Instead, Madsen singled the journalism students out for special restrictions not applied to other students. These special restrictions could very well have stopped this issue from being published until it was too late to have been of service

Dr. Madsen's position gives him a certain power over students. However, it does not give him the power to suppress our right to free speech and your right to be informed.

We would like to inform Dr. Madsen that we are not intimidated by his arbitrary actions: this paper will continue to print the news of Hartnell College.

Counselors help women, handicapped

Women and handicapped students are the targets of two special programs at Hartnell.

Women in Continuing Education is a program for women of any age who return to school after being involved with other obligations.

To help women deal with readjustment and to aid them in their choice of classes, Women in Continuing Education offers a series of workshops, women-oriented classes and support services.

The Sack Lunch Bunch, a weekly discussion group for women, often featuring speakers on various topics, is one of the services offered through Women in Continuing Education.

Handicapped students also face physical as well as mental obstacles in their struggle for education.

To help the physically limited students with these problems, the Enabler program offers many re-

Panthers prepping for pigskin premiere

Something's in the air.

The turf of football fields all across the country, given a reprieve from the tortuous pounding of cleats and crashing impact of heavily-padded bodies since last December, is once again being bulldozed by two-a-day workouts.

Here at Hartnell, practice began 19 days ago with some 70-odd young men beating their muscles into oblivion in hopes of making the 1978

Panther football squad.

The bitterness of last year's season-ending upset loss to Monterey Peninsula College, which deprived the Panthers of a shot at the State Championships, had not yet died before the two major questions for '78 were being pondered: Who's going to be the quarterback and how to patch the holes in the defensive secondary.

The quarterback problem, caused by '77 signal caller Dan Casas' transfer to Fresno State, has apparently been solved four-fold. Mike Peters, a QB on the Panthers' taxi squad last year, is back and would seem a likely candidate for the job. Along with him are Gene Sigala, who has already left his mark in baseball and track, Wes Spahr, last year's field goal/extra point kicker (although he did complete one pass for a two-point conversion in an unplanned play against Ohlone) and Rick Rebozzi, fresh out of Lincoln High School in San Jose.

As for the problem of the defensive secondary, Head Coach Marv Grim says, "We've got Mike Robinson and Mike Agrann from North High who're good DB's (defensive backs), we've got Domingo Gonzales from Gonzales high, a good DB, a kid named Charles Landers....so with Robert Cooke (the sole returning defensive back) coming back, we should be in pretty good shape there."

Another weak spot last season, lack of experienced players, has been somewhat remedied according to Grim:

"Last year we only had 11 sophomores on the team. We got a lot of freshmen back (this year) so we should have some good kids in certain areas, with good experience."

At the head of the sophomore class is running back Terry Galloway, who was an All-Conference selection in 1977 and led the conference in rushing with 12' yards, with a high of 264 against Gavil. His running mate from last year, Mike Do er, is also in camp, and the two should resent a threat to opposing defenses.

All told, the Panthers have 17 returnees, including All-Conference defensive linemen Dean Forzani and Mike Holly.

There's also a bumper crop of freshman running backs in camp. Tom Peterson (from North Salinas High), Bruce Farr (Salinas High), Jerome Smith (Seaside) and David Lara (Gonzales) are all vying for a shot at enemy defenders.

Last year's coaching staff remains unchanged. John Amaral (offensive backs), Frank Casas (receivers), Gary Shaw (defensive backs), Tony Teresa (defensive linemen) and Frank Geller (defensive ends and linebackers) will all be back to assist Grim in his appointed rounds.

Prop. 13 swings mean axe on athletics

After all the ballots were tabulated in the wee small hours of last June 7, it was quite obvious that Proposition 13, the Jarvis-Gann bill, would have a dramatic effect on the athletic program at Hartnell, as well as all other schools in California. But where have the cutbacks been made, and to what extent?

After all the ballots were tabulated the wee small hours of last June 7, was quite obvious that Proposition were cut several thousand dollars.

"Naturally, we hit the sports that had more money, like football, track and baseball," Kelley added. "You take tennis and swimming, some of those that only had two or three hundred dollars; naturally we couldn't give them the same kind of cut. They don't need a lot, but what they do need, they need."

"It's something we have to live with," said head football coach Marv Grim. "We've been real careful with our equipment. We're just going to have to eliminate certain things. Kids may have to end up buying their own shoes and furnishing certain things where we furnished them before."

Wrestling has been dropped completely, not only at Hartnell but at Monterey Peninsula, Cabrillo and Gavilan colleges as well. Kelley attributed this to the lack of participants last year.

Two of the six assistant coaches in various sports found themselves without a job at Hartnell as a result of Prop. 13.

"The coaches were going to do it for nothing," Kelley said, "but we're going to divide up what we do have and pay them a little token."

Volunteers needed to coach youth soccer

Volunteer coaches are needed for the Salinas Youth Soccer League, sponsored by the Recreation and Parks Department.

Teams will be in divisions according to age, ranging from third to eighth grade.

Volunteers will be asked to spend three hours per week, at their convenience, to conduct practice sessions. The season begins Sept. 30 and runs through Nov. 18 with games each Saturday at Closter Park and El Sausal Junior High School.

At the June 27 meeting of the Hartnell Governing Board, the following took place:

-- Trustees adopted an emergency resolution in response to the passage of the Jarvis-Gann amendment. This emergency resolution froze all salaries for all employees; cancelled growth increments; stopped contributions toward health or insurance benefits effective January 1, 1979; froze all hiring; extended the work year of 176 days over the fiscal year rather than an academic year; and provided that the superintendentpresident of the school may assign managers and supervisors to classroom duties, provided they are certificated for such work.

The resolution also gave the board the option to: limit health insurance contributions to the actual dollar amount per expended per employee during fiscal year 1977-78; assign teachers to day or evening classes according to the district's needs in maintaining an educational program; to set an evening and part-time hourly rate of $14.65 for regular instructors teaching in excess of their contractual obligations; to set rates of $14.65 per hour lecture and

-- The board approved the following management positions and reassignments: the office of dean of instruction was left vacant for a later appointment. (The vacancy was created when former dean of instruction N. Arthur Rasmuson was granted an administrative leave; upon his return, he is to be appointed to a classroom position.)

The assistant dean of instruction position was left vacant, not to be filled, when Jerry Kjeldgaard was reassigned as a classroom instructor.

The title of the Extended Opportunity Programs and Services (EOPS) co-ordinator was changed to EOPS manager.

Kjeldgaard said, "There has been a conspiracy on this campus to get rid of people who have the audacity to stand up and speak. And it's going to happen: you've just passed a declaration of rights, or a bill of rights, for dictatorship."

Jerry Kjeldgaard

Kjeldgaard also requested an open hearing.

-- Bert Rudolph, representing the Monterey County Taxpayers Association, charged that the year's leave of absence with pay ($55,000) granted to Rasmuson, was tantamount to a gift of public funds. Board members Schwefel and Bryan agreed to review and answer Rudolph's comments in writing.

-A proposal by the Carpenters 46 Northern California Counties Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee was approved.

At the July 11 meeting of the governing board, the following took place:

-- The board heard a report from Dr. Jesse Cude, a member of the Computer Acquisition Committee on the committee's progress.

Dr. Cude announced that, in deference to the passage of Proposition 13 and its impact on the college budget, the committee had reduced the total computer costs from $674,730 to $630,301.

The number of computer terminals was reduced from 34 to 20, but Dr. Cude explained that the option to add more terminals at a later date was still open.

Additionally, by eliminating the CAI co-ordinator and the operation supervisor, Dr. Cude said, the college could save another $40,000 in salaries. This savings would be somewhat offset by the need for a systems program at a cost of $18,000 per year, however.

The discussion of the computer ended when the trustees agreed to backdate (to June 30) a letter to the Sperry-Univac Co., authorizing the company to prepare a computer for use at Hartnell College.

This action, the board members stressed, did not authorize purchase of a computer.

Funds which will enable the college to purchase a computer have been transferred into a special account and may not be used except by the express consent of the board. (As of the August 2 board meeting, trustees were still unsure of the legal consequences of the transfer of

Board members James Schwefel and Allan Caldeira voiced their disapproval over the fact that positions vacated by retiring employees have not been left vacant, but have been filled by other Hartnell Employees moving "up the ladder."

Nighttime lighting for the tennis and racquetball courts also received board attention.

John Totten, maintenance and operation, manager, reported that since it only costs 40 cents an hour to light the racquetball courts, he had directed that the lights be left on until 10 p.m.

Tennis court lighting, though, is much more costly, according to Totten's figures. In order to accomodate Salinas citizens, who had complained about the dark tennis courts, Totten suggested installation of timer switches.
